EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

Health Promotion Nurse and Health Promotion Dietitian 2 full-time positions

We provide primary health care through a range of options including prevention, assessment, diagnosis and treatment. Our interprofessional teams include health professionals, educators and support workers representing both traditional Aboriginal and contemporary models of care, and using wholistic health and community development concepts.

The purpose of these positions is to increase capacity for screening and early identification to reduce secondary impacts, and assist clients with self-management by supporting Health Promoters in their prevention roles, and providing direct services to clients.

NOTE: Anishinaabe traditional practices involve cultural ceremonies and burning sacred medicines including tobacco, sweetgrass, sage and cedar within the work setting.

QUALIFICATIONS:

- current registration as a Registered Nurse with the College of Nurses of Ontario or current registration with College of Dietitians of Ontario; certified or eligible for certification as a Certified Diabetes Educator
- willing to work to full scope including performing delegated acts through medical directives
- experience working in an Anishinaabe organization - ability to understand and speak Anishinaabemowin a definite asset
- demonstrated competency in developing and implementing culturally relevant and appropriate health promotion strategies
- experience and demonstrated ability to work within a wholistic care model; able to work independently and be an effective team member
- willingness and ability to travel
- valid drivers' license and own vehicle required; copy of current drivers' abstract required
- current criminal records check required
- commitment to ongoing training and professional development relevant to job requirements and organizational priorities
- proof of immunization in compliance with policy requirements is mandatory
- positive attitude and capacity to act as a healthy lifestyle role model

These positions are part of an Ontario Nurses Association Bargaining Unit.
